hi, your email made me sad, Monica. I'm sorry for all that s--- that went down with that woman. It was very innapropriate for her to ask you questions like that. In my opinion, walkiing away sounds like the best thing because it sounds like you will just get the run around from those clowns and continue feeling bad. Isn't it amazing that something like work and employer types can make us feel so self-conscious? I hate that kind of stuff. I'm sorry again for all this and I hope you can put it behind you if that is what you choose to do.

Was nutrition guy fun? You have to give me some info like age, looks, how many times, nice, etc....My weekend turned around a little. I had a 'talk' with Chris when he came back from the golf thing and it was okay. Last night we went to a very nice, expensive restaurant but it was my idea so I'm still waiting for flowers and/or spontaneity. I have to be patient and forgiving with him though because he is under a lot of stress from both work here and also in the US. Actually, we may be going to the mountains this weekend- just he and I. Yeah! Next weekend we are being taken by Mitsui, who owns his US company, to a hot springs resort but that's with lots of people. So, my job. I like so far. My 2 classes are pretty good and the students are nice and higher level which is much better. Although, there is one woman in my presentations class that speaks slowly and quietly and has a terrible time reading Eng. out loud. She always stumbles over words and then goes back and starts the sentence over- it drives me crazy but I keep it inside. I feel bad for her because I know she knows she is a lower level than the other 2 in the class. The 2 women in my Bus. Comm. class are great- we have a lot of fun and itsmellow but htey are smart and cool. They are the type of people that I would not mind having a drink with after class sometime. We'll see. I have also started 2 private convo groups which are good- pays cash. I like most of the other instructors at my job-job but the staff can be punks sometimes. I've had no trouble with the bosses yet- thank God.

Well, I'm really, really fat so my new clothes look disgusting on me. Thats all I have to say. Oh, except wearing silk, or silk-esque, scarves is fashionable here so I do that with a suit. I looks nice but I tie it a littleoff my neck so I don't feel like I'm choking to death. My brother is like that with ties so it must run in the family. Speaking of Nick....he is keeping busy. He goes out with friends a lot, plays golf, softball and baseball, and works a lot, too. Mom thinks he has gotten over the initial shock and is on to the beginning stages of 'moving on'. I miss him and feel for him so much it hurts. Can I say something wierd, but not wierd? My brother, essentially, was my first love. Not love that is at all sexual because I never found myself thinking that way about him but love like 'men should be like this and I want one like this for me' -I never harboured any idea that I wanted him but as a model for my own man. Does that make sense? You've met him, I think you can understand how I felt. And in a lot of ways Chris is like Nick, especially internal qualities about treating people and being a good person.

Well, I love you girl and miss you soooooo much. Take care and write back soon ya' hea'. love Cat hi, cat-

i miss you! i'm glad you liked my silly little package. i had agood time at the spa (i did it with the nutrition guy)!!!! Yeah! Now i can start the count over again. (i kinda don't want to get into all the juicies on e-mail)! On every other front of my life things are not so great. i met with Marsha yesterday and it was very interesting. There is most certainly a disconnect on what he said he told her and how she acted. She didn't even know what my title or my job was about. she didn't have any job openings to offer. instead, she made me go over what happened when i had to leave (who told me) and then proceeded to confirm the Evelyn story about my "inapprpriate behavior". Then she asked me with such nasty women there and peopel gossipping about me why did i want to come back? I was so upset. i really did not feel it was her place to question me about that. later on, i said something about being told i could come back after november and she wanted to know who told me that! So, i have placed a call to him but i don't know what is going to happen. i foiund out today that i didn't get the NSC job. To top it all off the big creep is wearing one of my ties today. i think i'm just going to have to walk away from it all. i don't know yet. i know it's annoying -- i'm always saying this and then i change
